ARNOLDC

Presented by: Shaina Medina

Jan Catherine San Juan

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Lauri Hartikka

- Helsinki, Finland
- Senior IT Developer at Nordea
- @lhartikk

ArnoldC

- A programming language based on the one-liners of Arnold Schwarzenegger's movies

"hello world" in ArnoldC

Running Man (1987)

```
IT'S SHOWTIME
TALK TO THE HAND "hello world"
YOU HAVE BEEN TERMINATED
```

ArnoldC

- 2013
- Created using Scala
- Imperative Programming Language
- Parboiled - parsing
- ASM - generate the Java bytecode.

</>

To discover new meanings
from the Arnold movies with the means of computer science.

02

LANGUAGE OVERVIEW

Basic Keywords

BeginMain

IT'S SHOWTIME

Print

TALK TO THE HAND

Talk to the hand

Declaring Variables

HEY CHRISTMAS TREE `variablename`

YOU SET US UP `initialvalue`

If else statement

BECAUSE I'M GOING TO SAY PLEASE value

[statements]

BULLSHIT

[statements]

YOU HAVE NO RESPECT FOR LOGIC

BECAUSE I'M GOING TO SAY PLEASE

End Method Declaration

HASTA LA VISTA, BABY

Conventions

Variables & Keywords

- Variables should always be lowercase
- Keywords are always UPPERCASE

New Lines

- Each new keyword command in ArnoldC should be written on a new line.
- Keywords in a single line does not work

"hello world" in ArnoldC

```
IT'S SHOWTIME
TALK TO THE HAND "hello world"
YOU HAVE BEEN TERMINATED
```

03
Demo

Thank You for Listening!

CREDITS: This presentation template was created by Slidesgo, including icons by Flaticon, and infographics & images by Freepik.

Sources:
https://github.com/lhartikk/ArnoldC/wiki/ArnoldC
https://github.com/lhartikk/ArnoldC